Bedford, NH – This House has forged ahead during this pandemic to complete our business in a risk-mitigated manner, and achieved results for the people of New Hampshire. We were able to act on all of the bills that our policy committee recommended for passage. We passed a state budget plan. The legislative process isn't always pretty, and this first-half of our session year was no exception. However, in just one year, this body has gone from being completely shut down, to now being able to keep the legislative process moving by innovating our processes. The people of New Hampshire should be proud of their legislators who are getting the job done despite unprecedented challenges.
