Subject: Re: redistricting and prisoners counted

Good evening. Since I learned of tomorrow's hearing too late to adjust my work schedule to speak in person I remotely opposed online but the testimony feature is turned off on Gencourt so I must email you again -- though not one of member of the Senate Election Law and Municipal Affairs Committee, with the exception of Senator Birdsell's auto response, took a moment to reply to me last week

I may be the one emailing you but I represent many in Coös -- including locally elected officials -- who are dismayed at the new map, were displeasure with current one, too, with the enormous useless floterial district, and angry that Berlin continues to get extra representation and funding (roughly $95,000 extra in R&M tax revenue) by counting the inmates at the prisons

I am more firm in my stance by the day that the people of Coös county are being done a disservice by the districting plan, bolstered by the residents I've talked to who feel the same. We plead with you to align Jefferson with towns that have a similar population and therefore the same needs and concerns and where our small town will still at least a small voice of our own; and I implore you to look into the Berlin inmates and come to agree that Berlin's population be amended to the lower, honest number

I look forward to watching the livestream and hope to hear back from at least someone on your committee about my concerns

Below, my "testimony", is what you ignored last week (one correction in the links)

Opposition to NH HB 50 January 31, 2022

Good afternoon, members of the Senate Election Law and Municipal Affairs Committee, I am concerned over the redistricting of New Hampshire as a whole, and Coös as my focus

It has come to my attention that Berlin's population includes the inmates at the two prisons in the city. As felons they cannot vote and with the exception of precious few who coincidentally lived in Berlin prior to incarceration, they are not residents of the city, but in the custody of the state

If a penal institution cannot be considered a domicile for voting purposes (RSA 654:2-A), why is it permissible for representation?

According to the data being used Berlin has 9,425 people but 1,243 of that number are at the state and federal prisons meaning Berlin's residents total only 8,182. Using the inflated population count 13% of Berlin's supposed population (and 4% of Coös county) is an inmate

Also, the current drafts of the Coös districts lump Jefferson with Berlin together as District 6. The dichotomy of the municipalities and that the representatives linked them using the unincorporated area of Kilkenny is bad enough, but Berlin (even without the prisons) is eight times larger than Jefferson

We Jeffersonians will be all but drowned out-- and to add insult to injury Berlin gets more representation by having their numbers padded with the 1,243 inmates (Jefferson's population is only 1,043)

I'd like to know by what right are inmates counted in redistricting as residing in the place of the penal institution and what steps need to be taken to end the practice?

Subtracting the inmates, there are then 30,025 people in Coös county; divided into 9 districts of 3,336 people each (give or take)

Rather than putting Jefferson with Berlin, use Berlin's amended and honest population of 8,182 with Milan, Dummer, and Errol as three districts together. The four towns have communal and family ties and they also share a school district. Totalling 10,144 it is well within a reasonable deviation

This email has been CCed to my state representative and state senator, the governor's office, Senator Shaheen's office, and Orville Fitch from the Secretary of State's office

I look forward to hearing back from the senators both with answers to my questions above as well as feedback to my ideas
