3 1 Findings. The general court finds that New Hampshire law enforcement officers, professional 4 firefighters, and emergency medical technicians are dedicated professionals whose careers should be 5 supported through educational opportunities. Career development is essential for enhancing public
6 safety, and the state of New Hampshire should provide educational support to law enforcement
7 officers, professional firefighters, and emergency medical technicians. Due to changes in technology, 8 challenges arising from the opioid crisis, mental health impacts, and the increased complexity of 9 practices, management, and interactions with the public, New Hampshire needs to ensure law
10 enforcement officers, professional firefighters, and emergency medical technicians can gain
11 necessary skills through degree programs. Recruitment and retention in the workforce are essential 12 as municipalities face retirements, changing demographics, and increasing competition for highly 13 trained professionals. It is also a public good to encourage New Hampshire graduates to pursue 14 careers as police officers and firefighters and to commit to careers in the state.
