Senate bill enacting LEACT criminal justice reforms becomes law

CONCORD, NH – SB 96, which enacts several of the recommendations from Governor Sununu’s Commission on Law Enforcement Accountability, Community and Transparency (LEACT) is now law. Majority Leader and prime sponsor Jeb Bradley (R-Wolfeboro) issued the following statement:

“I am very pleased that SB 96 is now law, and we can move forward with several of the recommendations from the LEACT Commission. These changes are important to criminal justice reform here in New Hampshire and have broad support including, retaining information regarding certain police internal affairs investigations for 20 years, requiring the employment agreement between a school and its resource officer be made public, establishing a body-worn camera fund with an appropriation, amending our juvenile delinquency law to exclude children under 13 unless they are charged with certain violent crimes, and establishing a study committee to consider whether the state should collect race and ethnicity data to be included on state identification cards.”
